I thought that the space race section did not really apply to the class the way the other two sections did. The climate change book is a little outdated, but still highly relevant. Think the weakest film was "An Inconvenient Sequel" - I think there are stronger climate movies out there to pick from, like "Chasing Ice" or "Racing Extinction"

Please provide your thoughts on the instructor's teaching, including strengths and areas for possible improvement. Dr. Mariscal was hands down the best instructor I have ever had at the university (or very close second). I think his understanding of philosophy and the way he engages his students to think freely is amazing. His readings that were assigned were great length and wasn't overwhelming but at the same time were extremely informative.

His lectures are interesting and informative, but the exams are unfair. He asked really specific questions that are not in the powerpoints. He grades unfairly on the essays even if you used evidence to convey your point.

Professor Mariscal is a great teacher who loves learning. He made the subjects entertaining and was very informative. I do think he could have presented both sides to arguments a little more effectively but think overall he did a good job. I enjoyed him as an instructor.

The syllabus was a little hard to understand when it came to points and grades. For instance the quizzes. I am still uncertain how they are going to play out. Overall, enjoyed the class

I found the readings somewhat complicated, and at times I was quite confused on how the readings were related to the course material, especially during the climate change aspect of the course. However, I found myself discussing class material outside of class with friends and family which is not something I've done with other classes. I really enjoyed this class overall, even if it was confusing at times.
